Response to Amendment

1. The amendment received on May 7, 2003 has entered and carefully considered. Claims 1-16 are still pending in the application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-3, 7-9 and 13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fisher et al (US Patent No. 6,480,200) in view of Ajanovic et al (US Patent No. 6,374,317).

4. Fisher et al was cited in the last office action.

5. As per claims 1 and 13, Fisher et al substantially disclosed the invention as claimed, including a memory controller hub comprising: a cache adapted to store addresses of locations in physical memory available to the graphics subsystem for storing graphics data (col. 1, lines 58-61) and available to an external graphics controller hub to store graphics data (Fig. 1, Item No. 18).

Fisher et al did not explicitly disclose that the controller hub includes an internal graphics subsystem adapted to perform graphics operations on data. However, Ajanovic et al disclosed a memory controller which includes an internal graphics subsystem adapted to perform graphics operations on data (Fig. Items No. 110, 113; col 3, lines 45-47). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have implemented the memory controller hub of Ajanovic et al into the system of Fisher et al because doing so would provide a more flexible and expandable graphics system by allowing the memory controller to accommodate a plurality of interfaces such as graphics interface and interface controller.

6. As per claim 7, Fisher et al substantially disclosed the invention as claimed, including a CPU (Fig. 1, Item No. 10); a display device (Fig. 1, Item No. 24); a system memory adapted to store video data and non-video data; and a memory controller hub coupled to the CPU (Fig. 1, Item No. 12) and coupled to the system memory (Fig. 1, Item No. 14), the memory controller hub comprising: a cache adapted to store addresses of locations in physical memory available to the graphics subsystem for storing graphics data (col. 1, lines 58-61) and available to the memory controller hub to store graphics data (Fig. 1, Item No. 18).

Fisher et al did not explicitly disclose that the controller hub includes an internal graphics subsystem adapted to perform graphics operations on data. However, Ajanovic et al disclosed a memory controller which includes an internal graphics subsystem adapted to perform graphics operations on data (Fig. Items No. 110, 113; col 3, lines 45-47). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have implemented the memory controller hub of Ajanovic et al into the system of Fisher et al because doing so would provide a more flexible and expandable graphics system by allowing the memory controller to accommodate a plurality of interfaces such as graphics interface and interface controller.

Art Unit: 2676

7. As per claims 2-3 and 8-9, Fisher et al disclosed a dedicated bus interface coupling to the graphics controller to the memory controller hub (Fig. 1, Item No. 22).

8. Claims 4-6, 10-12 and 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fisher et al in view of Ajanovic et al as applied to claims 1-3, 7-9 and 13 above, further in view of Surti et al (US Patent No. 6,496,193).

9. Surti was cited in the last office action.

10. As per claims 4-6, 10-12 and 14-16, Fisher et al further disclose a cache adapted to store addresses of locations in physical memory (col. 1, lines 58-61), but Fisher et al and Ajanovic et al did not explicitly disclose that the memory controller hub is configured to provide a block of linear, virtual memory address by graphics subsystem or graphics controller. However, Surti et al disclosed a method and apparatus for fast loading of texture data into a tile memory, wherein texture data are store in system memory in a tile format that allows an entire cache tile to be stored linearly in memory space (col. 2, lines 8-10; col. 4, lines 3-5, 47-51). It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the cited references because doing so would not only allow the graphics engine to access memory faster without causing an excessive number of page misses in the memory subsystem; but also allow the graphics engine to take advantage of the high burst rate fills to load the cache, thereby enhance the processing speed of the system.

Response to Arguments

11. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 11-16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

12. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
